COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the city council was held in the usual place last evening with Mayor Smart and Councilors Ross, Cushing, Gallagher and Giesken present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted after a correction had been made. A general gentlemen were present to address the council the regular order of business was postponed. J. C. W. Brown appeared on behalf of the real estate agents to protest against the imposition of the special license fee of $100. He would like the council to talk over the matter with the real estate men present and see if some compromise could not be arrived at. P. F. Dunn addressed the council as a member of a committee of the real estate agents. There was no place in the Dominion where similar taxes were imposed. They were doing more advertising for the town than any other body of citizens. He objected to the possibility of lawyers and others receiving the license fee. No objection would be made to paying a fee of $25 a year. Mr. Lee followed and covered upon the same ground. A petition was read signed by twenty-two real estate firms, which set forth their grievances. In this connection Mr. Wallbridge announced that he would apply to the judge for an injunction restraining the imposing of the fee on barbers and laundries. A long discussion followed among the members of the council and it was finally agreed to refer the by-law to the solicitor for amendment to necessitate a system of registration in order to afford complete protection to the real estate agents. In cases where an income tax could be levied the license fee could be reduced by that amount. Mr. McKernan, who has the contract for supplying the power house with fuel, applied to the council to be relieved from the contract as conditions had changed so radically since the contract was signed that he is and has been for some time selling the town coal at a price less than it took to mine and deliver it. There was a disposition among the councilors to grant Mr. McKernan fully and the matter was referred to City Engineer Armstrong to report on at the next meeting.

E. O. Paton, of the Carriage Company, was present to see what steps would be taken with the offer he made the board of a team for fire brigade purposes. Mr. Armstrong figures that the cost of a team, harness, feed, etc., exclusive of stable room, would be $550. Mr. Paton, taking the risk of accidents to the horses, would furnish the team for $1,200 a year. The matter was referred back to the engineer. Dobson, Jackson & Fry advised the council that in places the sewers were from one to five feet deeper than in the plans and they understood that the tenderer who was awarded the contract for sewer and water house connections expected to get additional fees for excavation deeper and this would bring his tender up to the one sent in by his firm. This matter had been referred to Engineer Ashbridge by the secretary-treasurer who announced that the contractors had figured on the same specifications and that their tenders would stand without any increase in amount. Another communication was read from Dobson, Jackson & Fry objecting to the tapping of the water mains along Jasper avenue for the laying of house connections. On this point Resident Engineer Ashbridge said that the town was acting within its powers and that Dobson, Jackson & Fry could not interfere. Those various communications were then ordered to be filed.

A communication was read from F. E. Sims, secretary of the Industrial Exhibition association, asking that Engineer Ashbridge consult with president Ross of the association, with a view to laying a water main from the power house to furnish water for the live stock during the exhibition. The letter was referred to the engineer. An anonymous letter was read asking that the council take steps to forbid Kelly and Beals and others from piling their goods on the sidewalk on Queen's avenue. The matter was referred to the police with instructions to stop this practice and to treat all parties alike.

A. E. May requested permission to exhibit a threatening machine in operation to the rear of his office during exhibition week. The request was granted provided the necessary precautions be taken to guard against fire, etc. Gardiner and Dalton requested permission to move the sidewalk out and to build a fence for the safety of the public from J. Morris' store to the Union Bank during such time as the Sandison block is under course of erection. The request was granted.

The secretary-treasurer of the fire brigade reported on the recent three fires and announced the expense to the city of $131. The report was filed.

F. Oliver, M.P., wrote the council in reference to purchasing twenty-five acres of River for 20 from the Justice department recommending that the town close the deal immediately, provided they intend acquiring the property. On motion of councillors Gallagher and Giesken it was decided to send a check for $2,500 to Frank Oliver with instructions to hand it over to the Justice department for the purchase of said twenty-five acres.

Engineer Armstrong made the following report. Arrangements had been made with C. W. Sutter to have an exhibit of the Edmonton district collected to be forwarded to Montreal for exhibition in the office window of the Montreal Star newspaper. A report on J. D. Lubbock's claim for damages was given. The council requested him to get a statutory declaration from two of the parties in the rig at the time of the accident, that everything was as stated in the application for damages. This obtained, with the approval of the town solicitor, the second would then be paid. Announcement was made that the holes along Jasper avenue had all been filled up. A board shack had been erected on Mr. Gransby's property for the storing of certain materials required by him. The engineer recommended that a $1,500 residence be built for the engineer of the Edmonton waterworks systems. This met with the approval of the council and it was decided to call for tenders. In connection with his reports Engineer Armstrong suggested that the fire by-law be amended to forbid the storing of hay in stacks within the corporation.

The question of a grant to the Edmonton Industrial Exhibition association was discussed and it was unanimously agreed to vote $1,000. Three applications for the extension of the water and sewer systems were read, one from Jno. A. McDougall and Jas. Ross, another from W. H. Clark and others, and the third from the Bottling Works Company. It was decided to grant all three petitions, provided a guarantee of sufficient remuneration would be received, the work to start at the earliest possible opportunity. In this connection the resident engineer was given permission to order all supplies of material required.

Arch. Stewart's tender for the moving of the vacant house belonging to the town on Rice street, next the Deering establishment, was accepted provided that he supplies the sails.

Constable Ridd reported that the scavenger had erected a building for the impounding of dogs. The scavenger has undertaken to catch and impound them, he to receive half the pound fees, the other half to come to the town. If the dogs will be unclaimed at the expiration of 72 hours they will be destroyed.

Councillor Ross suggested the need covering up all excavations by the contractors during noon hours either they were being left open and were a danger to the public. The matter was referred to Engineer Ashbridge.

It was decided to advertise for 1,000 feet additional hose for the fire protection system. A hose wagon will be purchased.

The finance report was adopted and the council then adjourned.

THURSDAY, JUNE, 11TH, 1903.

FROM OTTAWA

Ottawa, June 5.

The Grand Trunk Pacific bill passed the railway committee on Thursday morning and will next appear for consideration before the committee of the whole house. The bill had a stormy and eventful passage through the railway committee and many of its provisions were materially changed. The most important change was the addition of a clause empowering the company to build beyond Quebec city through a part of Quebec province and through New Brunswick to Moncton on the Intercolonial line. The remarkable feature about this amendment is that while the avowed object of the railway was to reach the Atlantic, Moncton is an inland town, an important junction on the Intercolonial railway, but not a port in any sense of the word. This remarkable result was brought about by the energy of the Nova Scotia members, who seeing that public sentiment was favorable to an all-year-round Canadian ocean port, were bound that St. John, New Brunswick, should not get the advantage of being that port, to the disadvantage of Halifax. The Moncton proposition was spoken of as a compromise, that as between the interests of Halifax and St. John. But it was a compromise which keeps St. John where the Intercolonial originally put it, 95 miles off the direct line, and at the disadvantage of a round about haul of nearly twice 95 miles. A vote in the committee on the subject was taken which sustained the Moncton proposition by a majority of one. All the western men voted for a terminus at St. John.

The bill in its original form took power to the company to engage in all manner of private enterprises as well as transportation by land and water. No restriction was put on their powers as to transportation or even as to the ownership and management of hotels, but most of the other extraordinary provisions were struck out.

The question of route was debated fiercely, both the C. P. R. and C. N. R. being determined that the Grand Trunk should be kept out of their respective territories in the Northwest. As the route now stands the line begins at Moncton, N. S., and runs through New Brunswick to Quebec. From Quebec it runs northwesterly to a point on the boundary between Quebec and Ontario, fifty miles south of Lake Abitibi. Thence, westerly and north of Lake Nipigon to Winnipeg, with a branch in a southeasterly direction to Port Arthur. From Winnipeg westerly, south of Lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba, and thence northwesterly to Edmonton. This part of the route is to be under the special direction of the railway committee of the privy council. In this part it can only approach within thirty miles of the C. P. R. or C. N. R. by special permission of the railway committee. This is taken to mean that the line will keep south of the C. N. R. and will pass south of Battleford, only touching the C. N. R. at Edmonton. From Edmonton it may go westerly or northwesterly to the Pacific coast with a branch to the Yukon. Branches may be built to Brandon, Regina and Calgary.

The general attitude of the committee towards the bill as manifested was unfriendly rather than otherwise. There were a number of hostile interjections, not important individually, and incapable of being united in an effective opposition, but sufficiently numerous and determined to ensure full criticism of every point. The Trans-Canada promoters, representing Quebec city interests, were especially active, and there is no doubt that the C. P. R. and the C. N. R. were quietly and cleverly behind a good deal of the other opposition offered. From present appearances the fight will be continued in the house.

But the main question is that of subsidy and it has not been touched yet except indirectly, nor can it be until the subsidy propositions are brought down if they are brought down. From the discussion, as far as it has gone, it has become apparent that the Maritime provinces and Western members are generally in favor of government ownership of the proposed transcontinental line; but the Ontario and Quebec members are almost as unanimously against it; as they have the big vote their view is almost certain to prevail. It seems to be taken for granted that the railway will be built with government assistance and that the assistance is to take the form of a guarantee of bonds, but what amount, or under what conditions is not yet even surmised.

The railway commission bill has occupied the principal attention of the House. It is an amendment of the existing railway act and lays down rules for control of rates, but inasmuch as the C. P. R. is exempted from this control by a special provision in its bargain and the Intercolonial is specially excepted by the act itself, this provision will be useful in equalizing rates and preventing discrimination rather than in securing important reductions in cost of railway transportation.
